Cultivation and Curing of White Burley Tobacco.

The instructions given below relative to the cultivation and curing of White Burley Tobacco—from the preparation of the plant bed until the tobacco is ready for the manufacturer—was written specially for the Western Tobacco Journal by one of the most prominent Tobacco growers of Owen county, Ky., whose reputation for growing fine tobacco has never been excelled.

Having been requested to give my views on the culture and growth of White Burley Tobacco, I now proceed to comply with the request.

PREPARATION OF LAND.

Lay two parallel poles, say four inches in diameter, eight feet apart. Cut logs twelve feet long; put as many as six of these logs on the poles; then start a fire and let it burn about forty minutes. Then roll your logs on the same poles about the same distance again, and continue the same operation, making your plant bed any length desired.

SOWING OF SEED.

I would suggest the first dry weather in February or March; I have had good success the first light moon in March. Would prefer the soil to be a gradual Southern slope.

DIGGING AND SOWING.

Take a common weeding hoe and dig about two and a half to three inches deep. Then take a hand rake and pulverize and rake off all the little clods. After this take the back of the rake and level the earth down smooth. With the handle of the same separate the bed into three parts of equal width and put a tablespoonful, level full, of seed on ten feet square. In sowing the seed take a half gallon of ashes to every tablespoonful of seed, mix well and sow twice, and tramp until perfectly solid and level. Cut straight green brush and lay on these beds all one way. Be careful and raise the brush, if in the woods, by the last of March, in order to remove the leaves that have accumulated, and then place the brush back as before.

PREPARING OF LAND FOR PLANTING.

If sod land break as early as February, and let it remain until the middle of May; then put on a heavy harrow and harrow the same until thoroughly pulverized, but never rebreak. If land was in cultivation the year previous, break the first of May and let it lay ten or fifteen days, and then take a heavy log and roll the same twice; next take a small plow and lay off rows four feet wide. Set your plants two feet and a half apart on the side of the furrow. Within four of five days, if your plants have lived, commence to hoe them. Ten days after this take a small plow and run two furrows to the row. Do this every week for three weeks, and then follow with a hoe, drawing dirt to the plant. By this time the plant has grown too large for any more work with the hoe or plow.

WORMING.

The worming must be attended to once or twice a week.

TOPPING.

In topping, top from fourteen to twenty leaves, according to the healthy appearance of the plant. Two or three weeks from topping, you will commence suckering; this must be continued until you take off two suckers of each leaf, when this is done your tobacco is getting ready for cutting. When the leaf begins to curl or cup, you may then begin to cut.

CUTTING.

Now comes the important part. As soon as the tobacco is half wilted, have the team to take the same to the barn for scaffolding. Never pile in the patch.

CONSTRUCTION OF SCAFFOLD.

The proper mode of constructing the scaffold is to set a row of heavy forks, fifteen feet apart, another row parallel, the space between the two rows to be twelve feet; lay heavy poles in the forks; then lay a pole twelve feet long every four feet. When finished, it must be at least six feet from the ground. Though the scaffolds must be close to your tobacco barn, the same must not be loaded after scaffolding, neither must it remain on the scaffold longer than three or five days in warm weather. As the season advances, longer time on the scaffold would not be amiss.

Never, under any circumstances, house it while wet; and I would also say, never put fire about the tobacco with the hope of bettering the same, as the result would be the reverse, for the fire destroys its value.

HOUSING.

In housing, put your tiers three and one half feet apart, and your sticks must be six or ten inches apart in the tiers. Be governed according to size of the tobacco.

STRIPPING.

Another important part is stripping. I will say there are five different grades on any fine plant—trash, lugs, 1st fine, 2nd fine, and top leaf—all separate and distinct classes, which are very necessary to be separated. Hang those classes fifteen hands on a stick in your tiers, according to grade, after being stripped—trash in bottom tier, and lugs next tier above, and so on in grades, placing your finest in the top tier, so as to enable you to bulk your low grades first.

BULKING.

As to the time of bulking, first let your tobacco get thoroughly dry. I prefer the March winds to make a certainty in keeping order, never bulk until the frost has quit falling and you are sure all is out of the ground—say last of April or first of May. Have the leaf in moist case, so as not to break with pressure. The stem must break a little. Would advise four layers wide in the bulk, and remember not to take the stick out when you are bulking.

PRIZING OR PRESSING.

Never commence less than three weeks after bulking, but I would prefer six weeks. The size of hoghead necessary is four feet nine inches long, and the head four feet in diameter. Pack from one thousand to twelve hundred pounds in a hoghead. I prefer pressing tobacco quite lightly. I never lost anything by having light weight in fine tobacco.

We are indebted to one of the most successful planters of Brown county (O.) for the following comprehensive article on the sowing, cultivation and curing of White Burley Tobacco.

AMOUNT OF SEED REQUIRED.

Each acre will require about 5,000 plants and in order to be sure of enough plants, of a strong, healthy character, about fifty square yards of seed bed should be sown for every acre. One ounce of seed will be sufficient to insure plenty of plants for each acre to be planted.

An item of the utmost importance is the canvassing of plant beds, to secure your plants from the ravages of the "flea bug." The cost is trifling, and it will secure you a supply of strong, healthy plants, which you must have, to insure success.

PLANT BEDS.

To be successful in raising a crop of tobacco depends entirely upon the first step taken in that direction. Secure plenty of plants and have them early. Select for plant beds a fine soil, (south or south-east exposure—new and slightly elevated), and ground holding sufficient moisture, so as not to dry out during the day; burn your beds sufficient to kill all the seeds of grass or weeds; then you are ready to dig up your bed. Dig in the ashes well; then rake and pulverize every clod; be sure and take out all roots, rocks, and whatever other obstructions may be found in the bed. Sow your seed any time from the first of February to the last of March. Sow a bed for every acre you intend planing, is a good rule to go by. Sow about two large tablespoonsful to the hundred square feet. Then one of the most important parts is securing the plants, and do not fail to do it by brushing your beds heavily with green brush. The seed

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

MONDAY EVE., MARCH 6, 1882.

The State Senate has passed a bill appropriating $700 to pay the expense of taking care of the Ashland murderers.

The New York world observes that the nominations of Conkling and Sargent "appear to have been dictated by a desire to put two conspicuous and inconvenient Republicans where they will do the least harm."

Among the small bequests in the will of the late Edmund Burke, of New Hampshire, was one of fifty dollars to Dr. John Swett, "for his unflinching Democracy." Occasionally a man gets something beside a clear conscience as a reward for standing up for the right.

The Philadelphia Times says, nobody need wonder that Pinchback, of Louisiana, has got an office. He was one of the three hundred and six at Chicago, and this is a very good year for that crowd. Those who haven't been indicted or put in jail have a first-rate chance of entering the public service by appointment of the President.

The Committee on Congressional Apportionment as appointed by the General Assembly is as follows: From the Senate—Messrs. Cox, Adair, Skiles, Fogle and Mize. From the House—First district, J. R. Luten; Second district, G. V. Triplett; Third district, W. G. Hunter; Fourth district, D. H. Smith; Fifth district, E. F. Madden; Sixth district, J. W. Lilly; Seventh district, Charles Offutt; Eighth district, David Rankin; Ninth district, J. R. Clarke; Tenth district, S. C. Bascom. Two of the fifteen, Representatives, Hunter and Clarke, are Republicans.

Three young men from a neighboring village were brought before his Honor mayor January, this, Monday morning for a violation of the law. Two of them were tried under a warrant for being drunk and disorderly and fined $2.50 and costs. The third was convicted of carrying a concealed deadly weapon and his punishment fixed at a fine of $25 and confinement in the county jail for ten days. He prayed an appeal to the circuit court, after which the trio were allowed to depart. They came to our city to have a "little fun," so they said—they had it, and it is hardly necessary to add that they have paid for it.

The Albany Evening Journal declares that, "the political statistics of the past twenty years show that while many democrats die, few are born," and that "the great masses of the young men of the country, whatever may have been the political status of their fathers, reach their majority as republicans." Claptrap of this sort cannot be relied upon to deceive the wayfaring man though a fool. In 1860 the democrats of the United States polled for Douglass and Breckinridge 2,222,671 votes; the Republicans for Lincoln, 1,866,352; a democratic majority of 356,319. In 1880, Garfield received 4,442,550 (according to the American Almanac); Hancock, 4,442,035, a republican majority of 915. Take from Garfield's supporters at least 700,000 negroes, who had no vote in 1860, and the democratic majority in the Union would have been at the last Presidential election nearly three quarters of a million as against half that figure in 1860. Applying these facts to the Journal's statement, the conclusion seems irresistible that, in the last two decades, the sum total of elderly democrats who refused to die was greatly in excess of the number of young gentlemen of republican proclivities, who during the same period, attained their majority.

NEWS BREVITIES.

No more small-pox at Springfield, O. A very severe snow and wind storm prevailed Saturday at Duluth.

A great anti-Chinese demonstration was held at San Francisco Saturday.

Rev. G. C. Crum, a well known Methodist minister, died at Xenia, Ohio.

Fifty-one members of the Ohio House were absent Saturday morning at roll-call.

The Legislative investigation of canal officials at Akron, Ohio, has come to naught.

Hazel won the New York walking race, making 600 miles to Fitzgerald's 577, the others trailing.

Receiver Lathrop, of the New Jersey Central Railroad, died Saturday morning of heart disease.

The anniversary of the birth of Robert Emmett was celebrated in a number of the large cities Saturday.

Benjamin Schmidt, a hermit of Put-in-Bay, O., committed suicide by shooting himself through the head.

Governor Crittenden, of Missouri, telegraphs the Secretary of War to increase the rations already ordered for sufferers by floods.

The Ohio State Treasury has $130,000 in gold, and members of the Legislature object to being paid off in that kind of money.

Edwin Booth's engagement, which closed Saturday, was probably the most profitable ever enjoyed by a tragedian in Cincinnati.

An iron strike affecting her establishments, and throwing thousands of men out of employment, is threatened in Pittsburg and vicinity.

Near Earlville, N. Y., a passenger train and freight collided, killing one engineer and two firemen, severely injuring the baggage-master.

The Mysenberg Shoe Company, of St. Louis, which has worked about a hundred Missouri convicts, has suspended; liabilities, about $60,000.

A Colonel of the British Royal Engineers and an aeronaut attempted to cross the channel, dropped into the sea off Dover, and were drowned.

The coroner at Dayton, O., in the case of the supposed murderer of Albert Dittmar, found a verdict of death from accidental shooting. His wife proved an alibi.

Joshua R. Surfass, lawyer and prominent politician, was arrested at Easton, Pa., charged with having unlawfully procured the vote of a colored man in the last Presidential election.

It is expected that Queen Victoria will cause a proclamation to be issued returning thanks to the British and foreign press for congratulating her upon her escape from death at the hands of an assassin.

The Richards murder trial at Logan, O., has been suspended in consequence of the illness of the defendant. The defense introduced a number of witnesses, who all testified to the insanity of the accused.

One of Mr. Conkling's friends is reported as saying that that great man will wait until the President hands him his commission as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, when "he will forward to the President a characteristically dignified and eloquent letter of declamation."

The House bill to punish minors for misrepresenting their age to procure spirituous liquors, came up in the Senate on Friday, and passed with an amendment providing that if a barkeeper sells liquor to a minor over eighteen years of age, believing him to be of lawful age, he shall not be liable to the penalty now prescribed by law. The vote stood yeas twenty-three; nays nine.

In refusing to commute the sentence of a St. Louis murderer the Governor of Missouri says: "I have not one particle of sympathy for the murderers of women, who, after the cowardly deed, shrink behind the coward's plea of insanity and plead for mercy. They should remember that the law was not made for mercy, but punishment, and that, having had no mercy toward their victims, they have no right to ask such from the executors of the law."

Dr. Frazier's Root Bitters.

Frazier's Root Bitters are not a dram-shop whisky beverage, but are strictly medicinal in every sense. They act strongly upon the liver and kidneys, keep the bowels open and regular, make the weak strong, heal the lungs, build up the nerves and cleanse the blood and system of every impurity.

For dizziness, rush of blood to the head tending to apoplexy, dyspepsia, fever and ague, dropsy, pimples and blotches, scrofulous humors and sores, tetter, ring worm, white swelling, erysipelas, sore eyes and for young men suffering from weakness or debility caused from imprudence, and to females in delicate health, Frazier's Root Bitters are especially recommended.

Dr. Frazier: I have used two bottles of your Root Bitters for dyspepsia, dizziness, weakness and kidney disease, and they did me more good than the doctors and all the medicine I ever used. From the first dose I took I began to mend, and I am now in perfect health, and feel as well as I ever did. I consider your medicine one of the greatest blessings.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

MONDAY EVE., MARCH 6, 1882.

We've written, says a lady friend,
Of babies, boys, girls and teachers
But by a very strange neglect,
Have overlooked the preachers.
A little memoranda book,
We find down in our pocket,
Shows the Reverend clergy's case,
Is still upon the docket.

TWENTY-SIX persons left Portsmouth last week for Oregon.

THE wheat in this county never looked better than it does now.

SOME tobacco beds have been burned, and some plowing has been done in this county.

THE young ladies of the M. E. Church south, are organizing a broom brigade and intend giving an exhibition drill very soon.

THERE was a heavy fog Sunday night which delayed all the boats. The Bostona ran ashore just above Cincinnati and lost part of one of her wheels.

MISS JULIA A. HUNT, the Maysville favorite, has created such a furor throughout the country in her new play Florinel, that she will soon appear at the largest and most popular theatre in New York for a run of ten weeks.

THE exhibition by the Mason County Historical Society announced by Mr. W. D. Hixson, the secretary, promises to be an exceedingly interesting one. The indefatigable secretary has already secured for the occasion many curiosities that will be well worth seeing. The display will certainly be very attractive.

ON Monday, the 13th inst., county court day, the DAILY BULLETIN will appear as a five column paper and will print and circulate an edition of one thousand copies. Business men will find this edition a valuable medium for laying their announcements before the people. The edition will be distributed at noon on that day.

THE following is from the Cincinnati Commercial of Saturday: Jule Kamp, who for nine years has been the efficient clerk of the Gibson House, severed his connection with that hotel yesterday. Mr. Kamp is a splendid hotel man, and one who has no peer in popularity among the traveling public. His polite attentions and ever welcome face will be missed from behind the desk of the Gibson by the patrons of the hotel.

MR. WATT SHEDD, a well-known and very popular clerk, is now the head of the office on the Morning Mail in place of Mr. Frank Bryson, who has been transferred to the large wharfbat at Cincinnati. During the time Mr. Bryson was the chief clerk of Morning Mail, he made many friends here and added greatly to the boat's popularity. The traveling public will find Mr. Shedd equally attentive and polite.

Fun Ahead.

The entertainment at the opera house next Thursday evening, the 9th inst., by McIntyre and Heath's Minstrel troupe will be a most interesting one. The company comes with the most flattering press notices and is undoubtedly an excellent company. The Selma, (Ala) Times says:

The performance was not one of the fancy order given by such troupes generally, but partook more of the old-fashioned, genuine negro minstrels, and gave great delight to the audience.

Sylvester the "man serpent" is one of the most wonderful contortionists ever seen here. The singing and dancing were fine, and King the banjoist, showed himself a master of his instrument. The side-splitting farce Clam-Clam-Clam-Co. in which Heath, Belmont, McIntyre, King and the balance of the company appeared to great advantage was last on the programme, and brought the entertainment to an end in a perfect tumult of applause.

Mr. Wood has been so long known to the trade as a fair and honest dealer that it is unnecessary for the BULLETIN to say anything upon that subject, further than that his reputation is as bright to-day in that respect as ever. should be mixed with ashes or corn meal before sowing, so as to prevent them getting too thick.

SOIL, ETC.

The soil best adapted to the White Burley Tobacco is generally given up to be of a limestone nature. The best and finest tobacco that comes from cutting district is grown on new land, first and second crop, and in some cases a good crop is raised the third year, but that is running the ground too hard. All our fancy cutting tobacco is raised on such land, and, as a general thing, it is underlaid with limestone, although we raise a really nice article on old land by plowing under a good crop of red clover, and using plenty of stable manure. If you do not possess good, rich land, you had better let tobacco growing alone, unless you have plenty of manure or other fertilizers. It should be the aim of every tobacco grower to go for quality and not for quantity. If they were all to adopt that plan for a few years, we would soon get our markets rid of a great burden. Cultivating less ground and make a fancy article.

PLOWING AND CULTIVATING.

Land intended for tobacco should be plowed in the winter, if possible, and plowed deep, if you expect a crop. In the spring the ground should be turned with a double shovel plow, and harrowed and rolled, if rough and cloddy. The more you cultivate your land before you get your crop out, the less work it will take to tend it after it is set. After you have it planted, keep the plow and hoe going constantly, and plow just as deep as possible. The best plow for that purpose is a double shovel plow—shovels not wider than three inches, and full ten inches long. The more work you give your tobacco, the better body it will have. Tobacco should be set both ways, on bottom or level land, three and a half feet by twenty-eight inches. On hill land it will have to be set wider, to give room to tend it—full four feet between rows.

TOPPING, SUCKERING, CUTTING.

Now comes another important point in the growth of the crop, and that is topping. Don't top to more than twelve to fourteen leaves at the farthest; you will make more pounds at that height than at sixteen to twenty; your top leaves will all fill out well and mature, and be as large as any on the stalk. As to cutting, don't cut until ripe, which is about four weeks after topping. Keep all suckers off, to concentrate the strength of the plant in the leaves. Suckering Tobacco is very tiresome, and is the most laborious work that is connected with the crop. Worms and suckers at this period in the crop demand the planter's entire attention until it is matured and ready for the knife. Cutting is now to begin. A good hand will cut from five hundred to eight hundred sticks a day, and some extra hands one thousand to twelve hundred. Place from four to six stalks on a stick; you will have to be governed by size of plants; if large, four to six is plenty on a four foot stick.

HANGING AND STRIPPING.

In hanging in the barn, the sticks may be hung about eight inches apart, if dry and well wilted. Never take Tobacco in the barn if wet with dew or rain, as you are likely to have it house burned. Never use fire in curing White Tobacco, as the smoke renders it useless for cutting purposes, but keep the barn open, so that the air can circulate freely. When your Tobacco is sufficiently cured to strip, you should be careful in keeping each sort by itself. First, keep all the chaffy trash leaves together; then your bright trash or lugs; next comes bright leaf, which is about the center of the stalk, and sometimes all on the stalk is bright after the lugs are off. Be sure and keep each color and each length together by itself.

BULKING.

Having your crop all stripped, it is now ready for bulking. Great care should be exercised in having the case right, as too much casing will cause your Tobacco to funk. Heavy bodied Tobacco will stand more casing than a fancy article will, to get in proper condition for bulking. It should dry out thoroughly after stripping, and then, as the leaf comes in case before the stem, it should be just moist enough so as not to break under your knees as you bulk it. The stems may be dry enough to break, but that will not damage the Tobacco if the leaf has sufficient moisture to keep it from breaking.

PACKING AND PRIZING.

Next comes prizing in hogsheads, preparatory to shipping. This is not a very great task, but a great many make it so. There is but one way in which Tobacco should be put in the hogshead, and that is, every kind you have should be packed in a hogshead by itself. Don't mix different kinds together; if you do, you are sure to get the worst of the inspection, and your Tobacco will sell for what the lowest grade in your sample is worth; therefore you lose all your good Tobacco simply because a few hands of trash or some other worthless article is in your sample.

BATCHELDER'S Ventilated Egg Case.

Patented February 15, 1881.

Indispensable to Merchants Shippers
And Producers.

The outside frame of this carrier contains five trays, held in place by fasteners at end of case, as seen in cut. These Trays are constructed in reversible halves. The above cut shows one whole tray filled ready to be placed in case, each egg resting in its cardboard socket in such a manner as to be readily counted, candled, or transferred from tray to tray, or case to case, without rebundling.

For cold storage this case will store 60 dozen with racks made to receive the half trays, hence this is the cheapest storage case manufacturer, saving largely in space.
The manner of holding the eggs on end prevents oscillation, adding, or breakage, and adds greatly to their freshness when carried long in storage. Size of 30 dozen No. 1 cases 25x12x14, weighs 20 pounds.
